Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 26 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Turning colder with blustery wintry showers.

Today:
Through the morning a band of heavy rain quickly pushes east, clearing by midday. Sunny spells and scattered showers follow, at times turning heavy and wintry, along with possible thunder too. Windy and feeling colder. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Tonight:
Further clear spells with blustery wintry showers overnight with some snow accumulation over higher ground. Widespread frost with a risk of ice for some. Windy with coastal gales. Minimum temperature -2 deg C (28 deg F).

Saturday:
Wintry showers will ease through the morning to become dry with sunny spells. Thicker cloud and outbreaks of rain will then arrive by evening. Windy with coastal gales. Feeling cold. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
An unsettled period throughout, though turning milder. Outbreaks of rain will be heavy and persistent at times, especially over northern hills. Windy too, with potential severe coastal gales.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.